*Lifejackets are available!

NB Walking on Water is a metaphor. If you feel tempted to actually walk on water during the weekend we suggest you try a boat trip, a quiet lie down or a nice cup of tea instead. Unless your name is Jesus... or Peter... or you've got very buoyant shoes.

WOW Weekend

WOW = Weekend on Windermere / Walking on Water*

Friday 16th September – Sunday 18th September 2016

At the Windermere Centre,
Lake Road, Windermere, Cumbria.

Can You Walk on Water?

Come away for a fun time away together with the St Bride's community!

Plenty of time to relax and enjoy each-others company and a big expedition over the water on Saturday.

Times of fun, creativity, reflection, eating, drinking and relaxing together.

The weekend is fully catered for by the Windermere Centre Team. There's even a bar for the evenings!

All rooms en-suite. Book early to help us plan.

There's room for 28 people to stay in the centre and there are overspill B&B spaces off-site if needed.

First come, first served.

Day visitors are very welcome too on the Saturday.

Cost

Full weekend inc all food, day trip on Saturday etc £142
(cost of the weekend includes admission to a National Trust property – when booking, please let Dave know if you are a member of the National Trust as a small reduction will apply)

Children (under 16) £72

Donation rate (help subsidise a place for someone else) £160

Saturday Day rate (includes the daytrip) £42

Saturday Day rate (children) (includes daytrip) £22

If your circumstances are such that it is difficult to afford the full cost of the weekend, please don't be put off, have a word with Dave Bradley (contact details below).

Walking on Water

Through times of contemplation, fun and creative worship we will explore the theme of Walking on Water. The planning group are aiming to offer a balanced program which offers space for fun time together, organised activities and spiritual journeying together.
